

MA in Management and Organisational Dynamics

The University of Essex is one of the UK's top ten research Universities. This programme combines the expertise of two internationally renowned departments, the Centre for Psychoanalytic Studies and the Essex Business School*.

The course aims to equip participants with powerful tools to support creative work in organisations. Uniquely it draws on both critical management theory and current thinking on underlying group dynamics.

The scheme is designed for leaders, consultants, researchers and others who wish to get to grips with the complex human processes that impact on change in organisations.

Our approach is both robust and reflexive. Seminars draw on contributions from leading thinkers in the field. A priority is given to experiential learning. We aim to foster a fresh take on what is involved in both leadership and followership in the contemporary context.
