

RECRUITMENT PACK

This document includes the following information:

- Job Description
- Person Specification
- Additional information

Making an application:

Please complete the short on-line application form and attach the following 5 documents:

- a) A covering letter setting out how you meet the requirements of the role as set out in the person specification.
- b) A full curriculum vitae (CV) including any publications. You should provide information on the range and content of your teaching and supervision experience, as well as on curriculum development. You should also specify your 4 most significant papers published within the past 5 years (or an equivalent number appropriate to being an early career researcher). Applicants from within the UK should indicate which publications have been submitted to the REF 2014 and any assessment of the rating for each piece of work; For more information about the REF visit www.ref.ac.uk
- c) An education statement of no more than two sides of A4 setting out your track record in terms of contribution to pedagogical developments and, where appropriate, the development of professional practice. You should also include a reflective statement on your approach to research-led education and how it draws on pedagogical research. Also indicate how you ensure your continuing professional development as an excellent teacher in higher education.
- d) A research statement of no more than two sides of A4 providing details of your research plans for the next three years. This should include details of books, chapters or papers in progress together with planned publication dates. For journal articles please provide details of target journals and planned submission dates. If you have papers that are currently under review please detail the stage these have reached and the timescale you expect those papers to be accepted for publication. If you have papers that have been accepted for publication but not yet published please provide the date the paper was accepted for publication.
- e) A document of no more than two sides of A4 setting out your three year plan for generating external funding to support your research.

Shortlisting is undertaken by a panel after the closing date on the basis of information provided and failure to upload the requested documents will result in an application being rejected.

A commitment to sustaining an inclusive and diverse community is one of the University's Core Values and we are keen to address any imbalances in our workforce.

The University of Essex is proud to be part of the Disability Confident scheme and is committed to supporting diversity and equality, representative of our inclusive community. As part of our commitment to this scheme any candidate who has a disability and meets all the essential criteria for the role will be offered an interview. We also work in partnership with national disability organisation DisabledGo who provide detailed online access guides to many of our campus buildings and facilities which you may find useful.

Additional Information

Department of Sociology

The Department of Sociology was established in 1964 and is renowned for its research excellence. It is ranked 27 in the QS World Rankings and has been in the top ten for the quality of its research in all of the research assessment exercises since 1986. The sociology of deviance and criminology has been taught in the University since 1972, initially by Professor Stanley Cohen, subsequently by Professor Ken Plummer and then Professor Nigel South. The criminology group now includes Professor Eamonn Carrabine, Professor Pam Cox, Professor Pete Fussey, Professor Nigel South, Professor Jackie Turton, Dr Darren Thiel, Dr Anna di Ronco, Dr Anna Sergi, Dr Isabel Crowhurst, and Alexandra Cox. The criminology team at Essex produce a highly successful textbook - Criminology: A Sociological Introduction (Routledge), currently in its third edition.

The department is one of the largest in the country and currently has 35 permanent full-time academic staff. All are research active, and they work in a wide array of fields including sociological theory, social and cultural history, philosophy and anthropology, economic sociology, globalisation, international migration, environmental sociology, social psychology, criminology, cultural studies, LGBT studies, and feminism and gender studies.

The research culture of the department is sustained through a wide variety of events and forums. There are research groupings on theory and methodology, intimacy and gender, social justice, and economic sociology, whose activities range from seminars to discussions of work-in-progress and funding bids. The Department has three research centres. The Centre for Research on Economic Sociology and Innovation (CRESI) – the first of its kind in the UK - brings together staff members with an interest in contemporary and historical processes of socio-economic transformation. The Centre for Intimacy and Sexual Citizenship (CISC) was established in 2009 and continues a long tradition of research at Essex on sexualities, intimate life and equalities. The recently established Centre for Criminology, is distinctive in emphasising sociological approaches within criminology, and which the new appointee will help to develop.

You can find more information about the department at the following link
