Dr Nilufer Demirkan-Jones, BA MA MPhil PhD

Pronoun: she/her/hers

Biography
Nilüfer Demirkan-Jones is Head of Department of Essex Pathways; she is a Senior Lecturer and a Senior Fellow of the AdvanceHE.

Nilüfer followed a career in Teacher Education and Applied Linguistics with a PhD in English Linguistics from Hacettepe University and an MA in Applied Linguistics from the University of Essex. She has substantial experience in most aspects of teaching and learning and Teacher Education. Prior to joining the University of Essex, Nilüfer established and led the Department of English Language and Literature at Erciyes University in Turkey, where she worked as a Lecturer in Applied Linguistics.

Since joining the University of Essex in 2003, Nilüfer has been involved in a range of activities: at an academic level, she taught on a number of UG and PGT courses, across a variety of topics and jointly supervised student research with colleagues in the Department of Language and Linguistics. At an administrative level, Nilüfer has played an active role in the management of the Department first as an Assistant Director and Graduate Director, and then as Director of Education with overall responsibility for the Department's education provision. She has led the University's participation in two European Council (EACEA) funded collaborative projects through which she set up international partnerships with overseas HE institutions.

Essex Pathways Department opened its undergraduate pathways courses to Home and EU students in 2016 and has expanded on its portfolio since then. Nilüfer has managed this expansion; her focus has been on widening participation and on implementing strategies to enhance student experience through effective study transitions into HEIs.

As a member of Council and Senate, Nilüfer contributes to the University’s boards and working groups; these have included Academic Quality and Standards Committee, Digital Committee Portal Steering Group, Academic Offences Task and Finish Group, Achieving Potential Special Interest Group.

Biography
Anthony has been the Vice-Chancellor since 2012 and is a Professor of Politics and International Relations. He earned his masters degree and doctorate from the University of Oxford. His research focused on European and British foreign and security policy, and for four years Anthony was the Specialist Advisor to the House of Lords Select Committee on the European Union. He also chaired the independent government review of the Defence Advisory Notice (D Notice) System, a voluntary system established to limit the inadvertent media disclosure of information where release would pose a risk to life or to national security (2014-15).

Anthony is a Fellow of the Academy of Social Sciences, a Fellow of the Higher Education Academy and a Fellow of the Leadership Foundation in Higher Education. Anthony is also a qualified executive coach and mentor.

He has wide experience of non-executive positions within the Higher Education sector, having served as a board member of the Leadership Foundation for Higher Education, the Higher Education Academy, and the Equality Challenge Unit. He was a founding board member of the Young European Research Universities Network, and the board of the Young Universities for the Future of Europe alliance. Alongside this service to the Higher Education sector, Anthony has longstanding interests in engaging with business and the charity sector. For the last three years he was a board member of the Strategic Board of the South East Local Enterprise Partnership, promoting public and private sector led growth and job creation. For a number of years he served as a board member and Audit Committee Chair of the Blue Cross, an animal charity which provides nationwide support for pet owners who cannot afford private veterinary treatment, helps to find homes for unwanted animals, and educates the public in the responsibilities of animal ownership.

Anthony has 20 years of experience in academic leadership positions in five universities. Under his leadership, the University has re-positioned itself as a values led organization, focused on giving equal priority to excellence in education and excellence in research, benefitting individuals and communities. Under his leadership the University has increased student numbers by 50% and doubled the number of research staff. The achievements of the University have been publicly recognised through the highest rating of Gold for teaching excellence, the award of a Regius Professorship in Political Science in 2014, the Queen’s Anniversary Prize for authoritative social and economic research in 2017 and the Times Higher Education ‘University of the Year’ award in 2018 – the latter widely referred to as the Oscars of UK higher education.

Dr Ray Lashley, PhD (non-academic staff member)

Pronoun: they/their

Biography

Ray has worked at the University since 2007. Initially joining the Academic Section and working on course and student records, they soon took the opportunity to move to the Planning Office to work on statutory data returns and data analysis. In 2013, Ray became Head of Planning and Performance Information, as the Planning team continued to grow in size. Reflecting on work-life balance, after two years they moved into a part-time role in focussing on student number planning and funding. Following two restructures of the Planning Office, Ray now works in Innovation and Technology Solutions, still focussed on the development and operation of student number modelling.

Ray has worked on university campuses since commencing their studies at the Reading University. Academically, a BSc and PhD in Meteorology and Mathematics followed. A keen interest in student representation throughout their studies ultimately led to their election as Vice-President for Education at Reading University Students’ Union. Ray then worked for the now defunct Higher Education Funding Council for England, advising institutions on evolving policy and statutory requirements.

Outside of work, Ray enjoys cycling – both participating recreationally and watching cycle racing. They can also often be found around a board game with some friends.
