Stephanie Hilborne, OBE MSc BSc

Biography
From October 2019, Stephanie has been Chief Executive of Women in Sport, a charity which exists to create a society in which all women and girls have the opportunity to gain the lifelong benefits of sport.

Stephanie was Chief Executive of The Wildlife Trusts from 2004 to 2019, leading it to success by uniting its grassroots movement behind a shared vision. She has championed nature’s recovery on land and at sea winning significant improvements to legislation and building corporate partnerships. She has raised the profile of the growing inequality in access to nature and its contribution to health inequality, pressing for more outdoor learning in schools.

Before joining the national part of The Wildlife Trusts she was Chief Executive of Nottinghamshire Wildlife Trust and Wildlife and Countryside Link as well as holding non-executive positions with the UK Green Building Council and the International Union for the Conservation of Nature UK. She has served on three key Defra commissions – the Smarter Environmental Regulation Review, Independent Panel on Forestry and Lawton Review.

She received an OBE for services to nature conservation in 2010 and an honorary doctorate from Bristol University in 2015.

Dr Nilufer Demirkan-Jones, BA MA MPhil PhD
Pronoun: she/her/hers

Biography

Nilüfer Demirkan-Jones is Head of Department of Essex Pathways; she is a Senior Lecturer and a Senior Fellow of the AdvanceHE.

Nilüfer followed a career in Teacher Education and Applied Linguistics with a PhD in English Linguistics from Hacettepe University and an MA in Applied Linguistics from the University of Essex. She has substantial experience in most aspects of teaching and learning and Teacher Education. Prior to joining the University of Essex, Nilüfer established and led the Department of English Language and Literature at Erciyes University in Turkey, where she worked as a Lecturer in Applied Linguistics.
Since joining the University of Essex in 2003, Nilüfer has been involved in a range of activities: at an academic level, she taught on a number of UG and PGT courses, across a variety of topics and jointly supervised student research with colleagues in the Department of Language and Linguistics. At an administrative level, Nilüfer has played an active role in the management of the Department first as an Assistant Director and Graduate Director, and then as Director of Education with overall responsibility for the Department’s education provision. She has led the University’s participation in two European Council (EACEA) funded collaborative projects through which she set up international partnerships with overseas HE institutions.

Essex Pathways Department opened its undergraduate pathways courses to Home and EU students in 2016 and has expanded on its portfolio since then. Nilüfer has managed this expansion; her focus has been on widening participation and on implementing strategies to enhance student experience through effective study transitions into HEIs.

As a member of Council and Senate, Nilüfer contributes to the University’s boards and working groups; these have included Academic Quality and Standards Committee, Digital Committee Portal Steering Group, Academic Offences Task and Finish Group, Achieving Potential Special Interest Group.

Professor Anthony Forster, FHEA FLF
AMinstLM
Pronoun: he/him/his

Biography

Anthony has been the Vice-Chancellor since 2012 and is a Professor of Politics and International Relations. He earned his masters degree and doctorate from the University of Oxford. His research focused on European and British foreign and security policy, and for four years Anthony was the Specialist Adviser to the House of Lords Select Committee on the European Union. He also chaired the independent government review of the Defence Advisory Notice (D Notice) System, a voluntary system established to limit the inadvertent media disclosure of information where release would pose a risk to life or to national security (2014-15).

Anthony is a Fellow of the Academy of Social Sciences, a Fellow of the Higher Education Academy, and a Fellow of the Leadership Foundation in Higher Education. Anthony is also a qualified executive coach and mentor. He has wide experience of non-executive positions within the Higher Education sector, having served as a board member of the Leadership Foundation for Higher Education, the Higher Education Academy, the Equality Challenge Unit and the Joint Information Systems Committee. He was a founding board member of the Young European Research Universities Network and is board member of the Young Universities for the Future of Europe alliance. Alongside this service to the Higher Education sector, Anthony has longstanding interests in engaging with business and the charity sector. For three years he was a board member of the Strategic Board of the South East Local Enterprise Partnership, promoting public and private sector led growth and job creation. For a number of years Anthony served as a board member and Audit Committee Chair of the Blue Cross, an animal charity which provides nationwide support for pet owners who cannot afford private veterinary treatment, helps to find homes for unwanted animals, and educates the public in the responsibilities of animal ownership.
Anthony has 24 years of experience in academic leadership positions in five universities. Under his leadership, the University has re-positioned itself as a values-led organisation, focused on giving equal priority to excellence in education and excellence in research, benefitting individuals and communities. Under his leadership the University has increased student numbers by 50% and doubled the number of research staff. The achievements of the University have been publicly recognised through the highest rating of Gold for teaching excellence, the award of a Regius Professorship in Political Science in 2014, the Queen’s Anniversary Prize for authoritative social and economic research in 2017 and the Times Higher Education ‘University of the Year’ award in 2018 – the latter widely referred to as the Oscars of UK higher education. Anthony has also championed the creation of a 43 acre business and science innovation park, Knowledge Gateway, which has received prestigious UKRI and government recognition as a University Enterprise Zone, one of only 14 in the UK.

Dr Annecy Lax, MPhil PGDip BA FHEA

Biography

Annecy Lax is currently serving as Dean of Partnerships (Education), moving on from her role as Deputy Dean for Postgraduate Research Training. Annecy is also a Senior Lecturer in the Department of Literature, Film and Theatre Studies where she has occupied a number of departmental leadership roles. Her previous undergraduate and postgraduate teaching commitments complement her research interests in applied and community theatre, performing testimony, and the body performing protest.

Annecy has received University awards for her teaching practice, and recognition for her research innovation and impact, winning the Faculty of Humanities, Research Champion Award for the Celebrating Excellence in Research Awards 2019, and as Supervisor of the Year (Humanities) in 2020.

Annecy delivered an Impact Case Study for REF 2021 articulating her ongoing creative and professional engagement with Amnesty International and other third-sector partners. Following on from an AHRC GCRF funded residency, she is currently working on research outputs with six global partners on women theatre-makers who use their practice to promote social justice dialogue in conflict and post-conflict zones. Annecy is a member of the Human Rights Centre, drawing on her professional practice of creative approaches to highlight human rights issues.

Prior to joining the University of Essex, Annecy was the Creative Director for ice&fire theatre company where she was responsible for developing the company’s overall creative strategy and programme output, alongside managing the company’s partnerships, co-productions, and research collaborations. With ice&fire Annecy regularly worked with leading creative and cultural organisations, as well as major INGOs, government departments, charities and other cross-disciplinary artistic enterprises. She was accountable for the administration and management of the company, and responsible for fundraising, securing major awards from arts funders and other grant-giving bodies. She also acted as Chair for London 21, an industry consortium established with ice&fire and five other cultural organisations.
