Reviewing Research Plans and Outcomes

September 2022

About the RIS

The Research Information System delivers important benefits which include:

- The automatic searching of publications from a range of external sources and a simple process to deposit them into the Research Repository.
- A single place where researchers can manage grants, professional activities, teaching responsibilities and supervision, publications and impact.
- A way to manage and edit external web profiles.
- A platform in which REF submission and internal research monitoring can be managed with minimal re-keying of data or completing of forms.

About this guide

This guide describes the process of reviewing submissions made in the Annual Research Plans and Outcomes Monitoring exercise in the RIS.

By the end of the guide you should be able to:

- Login to the System
- Review completed information
- Mark your reviews as complete

Your Submission

For this review you will be asked to:

- Review and Score publications for the REF, i.e. publications published since 1 January 2021

You may also be asked to:

- Consider any other working papers or projects that are likely to result in publications
- Consider Awards and any grant applications made and pending or planned.
- Consider any indicators of peer esteem and national and international recognition
- Review Impact, in particular impact which that may support an impact case study
- Consider any knowledge exchange activities undertaken or have planned

Reviews for Annual Research Plans and Outcomes 2021/22

The University is required to submit 100% of our 'independent researchers' (ASER staff and ASR staff on Grade 9 or above) to the REF. As a means of assessing progress towards this, Senate and Council approved a set of norms that all ASER staff and staff on ASR contracts at Grade 9 or above should have the equivalent of three published research outputs assessed at a minimum of 3* by the end of the REF assessment period (subject to the normal allowances for individual staff circumstances such as ECR status; maternity leave; part-time contract; certificated sickness absence; etc).

It is important to have an accurate record of your preparedness for REF submission. This helps to ensure that support is provided in a timely fashion when necessary. In addition, departments have said they find the reports very helpful as a means of keeping in detailed touch with what colleagues were doing and intending to do, and of gathering information that they might otherwise not have.

i Please assess the selected research outputs in terms of their 'originality, significance and rigour'. It is essential that the granularity in scoring which has been provided is used as it indicates the level of confidence that a reviewer has in the score. For example, a score of 2.8' would be understood to indicate that a reviewer has less confidence that an output would achieve 3' and a score of 3.2' would indicate.

If an output is not eligible for submission, please score as 0' and add a note 'not eligible'.

A brief written review can also be provided for each item which, although not compulsory at this stage, will be helpful should clarification of decisions be needed or in the case of an appeal.
