Postgraduate research milestones ensure that students are making sufficient progress during their studies, to submit within the appropriate period, and to provide a supportive framework to guide students through the various stages of their research. PGR supervisors should talk through the relevant milestones during supervisory meetings and they should be referred to on a regular basis.

Supervisory panels and Research Students' Progress Boards use the milestones to guide judgements on progress and to shape a recommendation. It is recognised that every research journey is different and that, whilst the milestones provide an overarching framework of expectations, a degree of flexibility is also required based on the scope of research.

Students and supervisors are encouraged to supplement these milestones with individual research plans which take into account the specifics of an individual research project and the individual circumstances of the PGR student.

For students who have switched between FT and PT status, the expected terms for completing milestones may require adjustments, which you should discuss with your supervisors, as well as with the PGR psychology administrator and the PGR Director, as needed, and with your supervisory panels. This is because there is not a one-to-one alignment of milestones between the FT and PT timelines.

Has the student and supervisory team considered whether the research will be using human participants and, if so, has sought and received formal university ethics approval.

Has the student and supervisory team considered whether the research uses security-sensitive material and, if so, has sought and received formal university registration of this material.

The Supervisory Panel will make a recommendation to the Research Students' Progress Board, ahead of the next academic year. Further information regarding Supervisory Panels and Research Students' Progress Boards can be found here: <https://www.essex.ac.uk/student/postgraduate-research/pgr-progress>

Completion Period

If, at the 2nd supervisory panel, a student isn't on track to submit their thesis by the end of year 1 (year 2 for Part time students), a recommendation for a period of completion can be requested from the RSPB, for approval by the Faculty Dean (Postgraduate)
